Generation Rx
Safe medication practices for life.

Igniting the power of students

Prepare health profession students for effective medication safety outreach

Generation Rx is committed to teaching people of all ages about safe medication taking practices. First established in 2007, Generation Rx has continuously developed innovative educational resources while building on its rich history of student-driven outreach. With five unique programs for reaching different ages and populations—and multiple collaborations with youth-serving organizations across the country—Generation Rx is committed to supporting effective, sustainable outreach nationwide.

Our new Generation Rx Ambassadors training program is a self-paced online course available to support health professional students toward serving as medication safety leaders. Generation Rx Ambassadors prepares students toward engaging in local community outreach efforts and teaching safe medication practices using evidence-based strategies.

“I am very happy I decided to become a Generation Rx Ambassador. It is very rewarding sharing medication safety principles with young adults and seeing them put the new information to good use.”

- Shanee Patel, Ambassador, 2021

The Generation Rx Ambassadors Program

- Provides authentic opportunities for students to connect with communities.
- Offers practice for students to build skills in education, communication, and collaboration.
- Opens pathways to meaningful research and award recognition.
- Promotes opportunities for interdisciplinary outreach.
- Integrates students into a diverse and unique partner network, including Cooperative Extension, 4-H, Girl Scouts, and others!
